clearance. Does that ring any bells?

Brittany Kaiser: Ah, yes. It is a very complicated structure.

Ian C. Lucas: Some might say deliberately so.

Brittany Kaiser: Possibly. Originally, the SCL Group was the parent company for all these other divisions, including Cambridge Analytica. Now, once Cambridge Analytica became a very popular global brand, Cambridge Analytica then subsumed most of those companies and divisions and the SCL Group became just our defence company, SCL Group or SCL.gov, based in Arlington.

Q1560 Ian C. Lucas: But Cambridge Analytica had access to the SCL database?

HOUSE OF COMMONS

Brittany Kaiser: I believe once the company was rebranded that there should have been, at least, no access between those two companies except for the contractual obligations that you are discussing, although I do not believe up until that point that there was a difference between the SCL Group and the Cambridge Analytica database. That would be slightly concerning when we are talking about the difference between commercial and political and defence work.

I have had those concerns in the past because when I joined the company—I didn't remember this, but upon reflection—I found documents

Hi Liz

Thanks for coming into see us yesterday – it was a pleasure to meet you and it sounds like we are on the right track. As we discussed, we will make sure that the Target Audience Analysis (TAA) suits the purposes of Leave as well as UKIP and we will try to seed some questions into the survey that will help inform future study of insurance risk profiling.

Once we have completed the TAA and matched it to the Experian data we will be in a position to start microtargeting and, at that time, we would propose that we start digital outreach and a program of voter engagement and fundraising. However, following our discussion yesterday on the way you are using Facebook (and chatting it over with our Head of Digital Marketing afterwards), it occurred to me that you may like us to take over you current list-building activity in the interim. From what you've said, I'm certain we could improve the effectiveness and yield from current activities and that would give us a stronger base for the fundraising programme in the New Year.

Please let me know what you think and whether or not we should include it in the topics for discussion with Arron on Tuesday.

Separately, I look forward to seeing you again soon when you're up in London, so do let us know when you are coming.

Best wishes
Julian
